A. READING COMPREHENSION

Read the passage carefully. Then decide which of the following options is best. Only one option in each question reflects exactly the meaning of the text.

I will always remember my first day at summer school. When I woke up it was a bright, sunny morning – nothing like the awful English weather I'd heard about so often. I was thrilled to be studying in London and the Smiths, the family I was staying with, were very kind and friendly to me. I quickly got ready, had breakfast, then rushed out, feeling very excited.

When I arrived, the college building was huge and I wasn't sure where my classroom was. There was a sea of strange faces and I felt as if it was my first day at primary school. Suddenly, I saw someone I thought looked like a girl from my home town. I was amazed when I heard her call out to me.

'Laura! What are you doing here?' she said.

'Maria, it really is you!' I replied, explaining that I was a student at the summer school. Imagine our surprise when we realised we were both doing the same course!

The summer school turned out to be as good as I had hoped, and my English improved enormously. Needless to say, Maria and I had a great time while we were there, and made lots of new friends from all over the world. She was the last person I had expected to see, but certainly made the first day one that I will never forget.
